Connally Back To Hospital; Leg Inflamed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. John B. Connally, who was wounded by the sniper who killed President Kennedy, is back in a hospital for treatment of an inflamed right leg.

His doctor said the trouble is not considered serious.

The inflammation is in a vein of the right calf where a tube was inserted for intravenous feeding at a Dallas hospital.

Doctors sent him to St. David's Hospital here Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the Cambodia Broadcast: U.S. officials, expressing shock and outrage, sought to verify reports that Cambodia's government-controlled radio had called for a celebration of the deaths of Thailand's premier and President John F. Kennedy. A State Department spokesman said a Cambodian broadcast had been heard apparently rejoicing at the death of state "enemies" in Thailand and in South Viet Nam, along with "the great boss of these aggressors"—taken here as a slurring reference to Kennedy's assassination, Nov. 22.

Coffee: Informed sources said today the U.S.-sponsored international coffee agreement appears in danger of dying for lack of U.S. congressional approval of legislation to make it operative in this country. The agreement, hailed as a plan to save coffee-producing countries from economic chaos, provides that importing and exporting nations must ratify it by Dec. 31 to make it effective. Congress is planning to recess for the Christmas holidays Dec. 22.

The agreement cannot be operative without U.S. participation. Kidnaping: State Department officials portray the seizure of four Americans in Bolivia as more of an accident than an anti-American act. They said Monday they believed the Americans just happened to be in the mine area when left-wing tin miners got word two of their leaders had been seized by the government.

Soybean Oil Garnishes An Unsavory Commodity Salad

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Soybean oil and stock brokering, tossed in an unsavory salad, have given Wall Street one of its worst spells of indigestion in years. Stocks are involved because some brokerage houses deal both in security trading and commodity futures. The New York Stock Exchange has authorized up to $12 million to help the innocent bystanders, some of the 20,000 customers of Ira Haupt & Co., a member firm, who saw their securities accounts suddenly frozen because of disastrous deals in the commodity markets in which they were in no way directly involved.

Many of the 17 million Americans who own stocks until now may have paid little mind to commodity markets.

Here, in simplified terms, is what commodity futures trading normally is. (The Haupt at fair started this way but went into a maze of dealings far beyond the scope of ordinary commodity futures trading.)

Commodity futures are contracts for delivery of a specified amount of a given grain, fiber, metal, or other goods, at a fixed price at some future date. Say, 60,000 pounds of soybean oil, for X-dollars next January. Actually, most contracts are settled without delivering or receiving the physical commodity. The contracts, in short, are bought and sold like stock certificates. The difference between the price specified in the contract and the market price at the time the contract expires constitutes the profit or loss.

Those who first offer the contracts usually are the growers, dealers or producers of basic raw materials, who have the commodity on hand but want to hedge against the risk of sharp and unpredictable price movements. A sudden Soviet offer to buy wheat, for example, can overnight affect the going price for the grain—and so can the weather conditions.

The hedge works like this: To protect his holdings in soybeans, say, the dealer or processor may go short by having his broker sell January contracts at the prevailing present price. If the price does fall, he can fulfill his contract and use this profit to offset the lower value of the same beans he holds. If the price rises between now and January, he is ahead on the commodity he holds and thus offsets any loss in settling his futures contract.

Contracts are mostly bought by speculators willing to take on the price change risks the hedger seeks to side step. Speculators buy a contract specifying a certain price at a definite future date because they are betting the present price will hit that figure.

Margins in commodity future trading are very small by stock trading standards—5 to 10 per cent in cash for commodities compared to the present 70 per cent cash requirement in stocks. Thus the leverage and chances of making a big profit are much larger in trading on margin in commodities than in stocks—and the risks are correspondingly greater, too, if you guess wrong.

TAIPEI (AP)—The legislative Yuan (Parliament) in Taipei approved today the appointment of Finance Minister C. K. Yen as new premier of Nationalist China. He will take over formally from Chen Cheng Monday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—Bob Hope apparently will be able to make his annual Christmas season tour to entertain troops abroad despite a worrisome eye condition.

Vision in Hope's left eye is blurred by a blood clot on the retina. He has been under treatment at Children's Hospital in San Francisco since Friday and a spokesman said Monday he probably will remain there until the end of the week.

But, the spokesman added, Hope's planned visit to U.S. military bases in the Mediterranean shouldn't have to be curtailed.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rep. William J. Green, D-Pa., 53, is in critical condition in a Philadelphia hospital after an operation for peritonitis. Green was stricken Sunday while in New York for the funeral of Herbert H. Lehman, former New York governor.

Hackett Numb From Jaunt To Hungary

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From the halls of Budapest to the shores of Malibu — that's the latest screen odyssey of the once-rotund comic Buddy Hackett.

Three weeks ago Hackett, lately a compact 180 pounds after a high of 244, was filming a unique coproduction of Cinerama and Hungary's nationalized movie studio.

This week he was working at the ocean in the completely capitalized "Muscle Beach Party," a follow-up to the successful "Beach Party."

Buddy finds himself in the uncomfortable position for a comedian of having to be funny when he doesn't feel like being funny. That's what the experience in Hungary did to him. Usually he comes out of a new experience with a routine for his night club act.

"Not only did I not get any routine in Hungary," he shrugged, "I can't do my old ones! It will take me some time to get back in form."

Buddy seemed numbed by his 14 weeks in Hungary.

"I don't know what to say about it; I would need three hours to explain myself," he said. "Not only that; I've got to be careful what I say. If I say I loved the Hungarian people—which I did—I'll be called a Communist sympathizer. If I say I hated being in Hungary—which I did—I'll be called a troublemaker."

He went to Hungary to make "Millie Goes to Budapest," in which he and George Sanders play a pair of thieves out to steal national treasures. The reception by Hungarian officials was nil, said Buddy, but the people themselves—that was another matter.

"I became almost a national hero," the comedian said. "That's because I was the only visitor who tried to learn their language. Everywhere I went I talked to people and tried to make them laugh. I would tell them in their own language: 'The Hungarian people are all heart'—and they are."

"But I couldn't get over the miserable way they had to live. It was terribly depressing, yet

The food in Hungary? "After I changed hotels, I never had a bad meal. They have all kinds of goulash and wonderful fish and a fish soup that I loved. It was so hot it made my mother's horseradish taste like sour cream."

The first six weeks of filming were wasted, he said, because of foul-ups with a British company which was also coproducing. The British pulled out, and then production moved more smoothly under the direction of

The studio was built by Alexander Korda in 1928, and Buddy said it was on a par with studios in Hollywood, where many are of the same vintage. But there was no incentive among the set workers.

69 Ballot Edge

Accommodations Bill Given Narrow Okay In St. Joseph

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Voters approved by a narrow margin Tuesday an ordinance prohibiting racial discrimination in hotels, motels, restaurants and places of entertainment. Not affected are bars, taverns and private clubs.

The vote in a special election was 5,031 to 4,962.

The victory, although by only 69 ballots, was hailed by Milton

Litvak of St. Joseph, vice chairman of the Missouri Human Rights Commission, as an indication that "citizens are ready to accept enactment of civil rights laws in this area as a method of furthering progress in the areas of human and civil rights for minority groups."

Forty thousand people were eligible to vote. The fact that less than one-quarter of them did was attributed to lack of more than the one issue and cold weather — temperatures in the 20s.

The city has a population of 80,000, of which an estimated 2,500 are Negro.

Voters in the Negro section favored the ordinance by a 6-1 margin. The older and more established residential sections also favored it. The tide was against the ordinance on the south side, which is largely industrial, and in a recently annexed suburban area of new homes.

The clergy, Mayor Arthur J. Meers and the St. Joseph News-Press and Gazette spearheaded the drive for the ordinance. Most opposition came from businesses affected by it.

Mayor Meers said: "The people have supported an issue that should have been accomplished many years ago. I feel that the progressive people who have supported the public accommodations ordinance have made it a little easier for me to continue taking stands on various issues."

The ordinance was passed by the City Council 5-4 last summer but was in effect only 10 days before referendum petitions forced its suspension. During those 10 days there were no complaints, although a number of establishments refused admission or service to Negroes.

The ordinance will become effective again in 10 days. It provides for a committee of five, selected from the general public to handle all complaints — by education, persuasion and conciliation if possible, by court action if not. The minimum fine for violation is $10.

A similar ordinance was prevented from going into effect in Kansas City, 55 miles to the south, by petitions circulated by the Kansas City Tavern Owners Association and a group known as the Association for Freedom of Choice.

The ordinance would have gone into effect Sept. 25. A referendum date remains to be set.

Scotland Yard Detectives Nab Prime Suspect

LONDON (AP)—A chase over London's rooftops ended Tuesday night with Scotland Yard's flying squad capturing "The Weasel," 28-year-old racing driver Roy James, as the prime suspect in the great train robbery.

Thirty men from the flying squad, the Yard's plainclothes elite, smashed through locked doors and windows of a yellow painted cottage in the swank St. John's Wood district.

As they streamed in the Weasel clambered out of a skylight and scrambled along the roofs of adjoining houses.

Congressman Explores The Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fred Schwengel, tall, rugged and 56, heaved a manhole cover to the side and started to climb down a hole in the ground behind the U.S. Capitol.

"This will make some story," he said with a laugh. "A congressman going down a manhole."

As he started to descend, a little boy spotted him and called out from afar: "Hey, Mr. Schwengel, is it Groundhog Day?"

It wasn't Groundhog Day. It was a normal exploration—

In pursuit of a hobby—in the life of Fred Schwengel, a Republican congressman from Iowa, a man who surely knows more about the byways and history of the Capitol than any other man who works there.

Schwengel's knowledge and enthusiasm about the Capitol have come to public notice in the last week with the publication of "We The People." It is a lavishly illustrated history of the Capitol, produced by the National Geographic Society and sponsored by Schwengel's U.S. Capitol Historical Society.

On the day he descended into the manhole, Schwengel, flush with the news that the book was a best seller, was taking a group of newsmen, their wives and children on a tour of those recesses of the Capitol hardly anyone but Schwengel ever sees.

The tour could be compared only with storied and movie-lined tours of the sewers of Paris, of the hidden corridors in the Phantom's Opera, of the subways of New York, of the secret passageways of a medieval castle.

Before the tour, Schwengel talked a bit about his early interest in history.

"When I came to Washington as a congressman in 1955," he said, "my interest quickened. I was in the capital of the world. There was so much history around me. I became so interested that I gave up golf to have more time for reading and exploring."

But, he continued, he soon found out that there wasn't a good one-volume book written on the Capitol. "I had been using one written in the 19th century," he said. "That was my bible on the Capitol. In that book, the author says there are 13 columns on

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

MEMORIAL SERVICE: A candle-light service will be held at the Lincoln Memorial Sunday afternoon, Dec. 22, to mark the close of the official 30-day period of mourning for President Kennedy.

A torch ignited by the eternal flame burning at Kennedy's grave will be carried to the memorial to touch off candles for the service. Washington area church choirs and five clergymen will participate.

JOHNSON - TV STATION: Chairman E. William Henry of the Federal Communications Commission doubts ownership of an Austin, Tex., television station by President and Mrs. Johnson will affect FCC decisions regarding it.

Noting that the Johnsons have placed in trust their stock in the company that owns the Austin station and has an interest in others, Henry said Sunday: "As far as I am concerned, as an appointed official, this is satisfactory."

BARGHOORN: Yale Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn says the Soviet government leveled four espionage charges against him when they seized and held him in Moscow for 16 days last month.

Barghoorn, freed after President Kennedy denied he was on intelligence mission and demanded his release, said the most serious charge was that he was trying to obtain information about Soviet missiles.

MRS. SMITH: Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., thanks Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine could whip both Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in the New Hampshire Republican presidential primary.

Interviewed Sunday on Metropolitan Broadcasting's Radio and television program "Opinion in the Capital," Aiken said that if the three enter the primary "Mrs. Smith would probably get the largest number of votes."

Panel Game Is Pleasant Early Show

NEW YORK (AP)—"To Tell the Truth," CBS's Monday night guessing game is a pleasant, well-placed, early evening program.

At our house, we watch it with our after-dinner coffee, finding it amusing to guess with the panel which contestant is the real skin diver, bear wrestler or whatever.

Monday night's show was about par for the series, which will soon start its eighth season on the network. Tom Poston, Peggy Cass, Orson Bean and Kitty Carlisle were bright and good-humored, if not always too shrewd in their attempts to spot the real inventor of the wobble board, the real Japanese flower arranger and the real designer of Thanksgiving Day parade balloons.

The show had been taped Nov. 29 for broadcast the following Monday, but that was the day of President Kennedy's funeral, and it underwent some minor surgery.

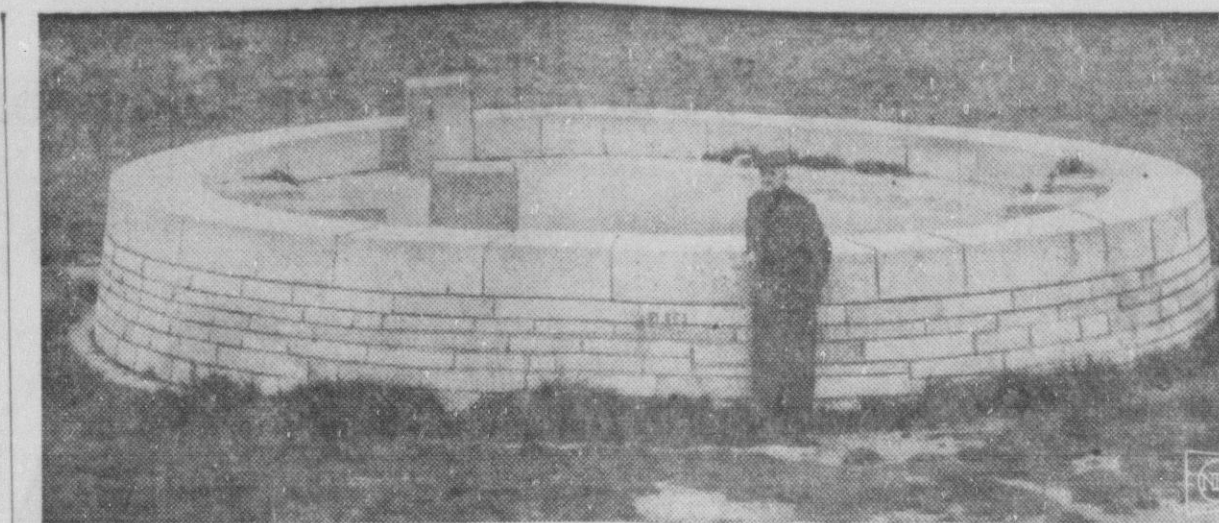

A light-hearted exchange between Poston and a contestant who said her name was Casablanca revolved about its translation as "white house." Producer Gil Fates thought it would be in better taste to remove the reference.

CBS will pre-empt the Jackie Gleason show of Saturday, Jan.

4—for an hour-long special tribute to the entertainer for his 35 years in show business.

The program, "The Many Worlds of Jackie Gleason" will have producer Otto Preminger as host and Art Carney as a special guest.

Jack Benny and Bing Crosby will take over Friday night's NBC Bob Hope comedy special while the comedian recuperates from treatment for an eye condition. Crosby will also present the first edition of "The Hollywood Palace" Jan. 4, replacement for the "Jerry Lewis Show." There will be a different master of ceremonies each week thereafter.

LONG TIME BETWEEN TRAINS: Mayor DeBryne of the French coastal town of Sangatte, near Calais, stands beside a monument marking the place where a tunnel under the English Channel was started in the 1890s. As English and French engineers and government officials move ahead with plans for the "Chunnel," a railway-auto tunnel under the channel, the mayor hopes that in his lifetime he may witness the coming into reality of this old dream.

Nude Posing Is Okay If Street Deserted

NEW YORK (AP)—A judge says there's nothing disturbing about a nude posing in the middle of a deserted Manhattan street on a quiet Sunday afternoon.

The court decision was handed down Monday in the case of the People vs. Jan Tice.

Miss Tice, 27, a model, took off her clothes Nov. 10 on Liberty Street in the financial district to pose for a photographer taking pictures for a book. A policeman happened by and arrested them.

Criminal Court Judge Richard

F. Daly acquitted them, saying a breach of the peace requires the presence of the public and "there weren't any people there."

Sedalia's Holiday Spirit

One felt like addressing the wintry elements Tuesday afternoon in this manner:

"Well, are you going to snow or aren't you?"

This impatience was natural considering the intermittent flurries that gave alternate promise and despair as nippy weather offered invitation to a blanket of snow.

And, then, it came overnight — SNOW!

Snow or no snow, Christmas shopping in Sedalia is surging as an aftermath of one of the best parades in years master-minded by Chamber of Commerce officers and members. Many thousands of men, women and children from Sedalia and the trade area lined the parade route. Parking space for automobiles extended far into the residential area. This we found out by driving around trying to find a location and then driving seven blocks back home to find a space. That's how far parking was taken up on both sides of West Third street.

Laudatory remarks are also heard about the new Christmas decorations which festoon the downtown shopping district. With gleaming colored lights they are particularly attractive at night especially the ones hanging above the intersections along Main street and Ohio avenue and some side streets.

Next year some additional attention should be given the side streets.

Many persons miss the large lighted candy canes, Santas and reindeer replicas attached to street light standards. However, there is greater demand for the streamer types of holiday decoration and illumination. Now that they are here, let's enjoy them fully in the spirit of the season.

It is stimulating to witness the gaiety of the shoppers and realize that what makes this so is the result of many months of planning by Sedalia merchants individually and collectively to stock a wide assortment of merchandise for Central Missouri patrons.

Adding to this is the fine cooperation of numerous organizations, churches, schools and spirited individual workers who prove again what can be accomplished by working together for a community project.

The efforts of all participants are appreciated by those witness to their labors; particularly by those who come from the far reaches of Sedalia's trade territory, and naturally by those right here at home in the good old town of Sedalia. GHS

LBJ Sparks Top Business Leaders

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It's been well publicized that President Johnson had two sessions last week with American business leaders and American labor leaders. Exactly what happened at the two closed door meetings has not been publicized.

Most unique development was the private support which business leaders gave Johnson. Many came away just as enthusiastic as the labor leaders, who were considered in Johnson's corner in the first place.

Johnson gave a short talk to the Business Advisory Council, which includes the top brass of the business world, then sat down in the cabinet room to chat with them individually. This was what they seemed to enjoy most.

In the group was Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman, Sachs and the man who raised $3,000,000 to finance the big radio-TV political punch of Eisenhower's 1952 campaign.

Also present was Henry Ford II, head of the far flung automobile empire who was a strong Eisenhower-Nixon supporter. His former associate, Ernie Breech, who has guided the destinies of both Ford and General Motors and is now chairman of Trans World Airlines, was also present.

All expressed their appreciation of the new president. But the man who seemed most appreciative was Crawford Greenwalt, head of the giant Du Pont company. The Du Pont family is one of the heaviest contributors to the Republican party, usually tosses about $200,000 into the GOP kitty at every election. During recent years they have been battling against the Justice Department regarding the split up of Du Pont-General Motors stock, a suit begun under the Democrats.

But Greenwalt confided to friends at the White House that the nation was "fortunate" to have a man as well qualified as Johnson standing in the wings ready to take over.

Meany Is Persistent
Johnson's meeting with labor leaders was held one hour earlier, and the president kidded his secretary of commerce, Luther Hodges, who sat in on the labor session that he had got here "a little too early" for the business conference.

Other cabinet members who attended both meetings were Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Interior Udall, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman and Secretary of Labor Wirtz.

At the meeting with labor leaders, Johnson did more listening than talking, as AFL-CIO President George Meany outlined his worries over unemployment and automation.

This incidentally was Meany's second session with Johnson since the death of President Kennedy. Johnson had phoned Meany after receiving a sympathetic telegram, had told him he was going to need his support.

"You'll get it," blurted the brusque labor leader.

Lives of Usefulness

Department of Agriculture has come up with some longevity figures for household appliances which will interest many people—and probably make some of them mad and others feel superior.

With normal use, washing machines should last 11 years; electric sewing machines, 24 years; vacuum cleaners, 15 to 18 years; toasters, 15 years; refrigerators, 16 years; and television sets, 11 years.

By that time, most of them should be paid for.

Don't cuss the climate. It probably doesn't like you any better than you like it.

— Don Marquis

The World Today

Period of Uneasily Calm for LBJ

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will never see the likes of it again. It probably will last through Christmas, but not much longer.

The Republicans are muted, Premier Khrushchev is as quiet as a doll, and Fidel Castro must be playing a mandolin, he's so quiet.

This isn't the first time a man in Johnson's spot — suddenly thrust into the White House on a president's death — was given a period of grace.

It happened when Vice President Harry S. Truman took over in 1945, after President Franklin D. Roosevelt's death.

The tasks confronting Johnson since he became president are just a mild daily routine compared with what faced Truman.

He had to end a war in Europe (Johnson's main problem now is with the budget) and another in Asia, help get the United Nations started, decide to drop atomic bombs on Japan, reconquer the country to peace, hold down living costs and settle strikes.

For some months after he moved into the White House Truman practically had a honeymoon with the Republicans in Congress. That was in 1945. The honeymoon didn't last long, the next year was a congressional election year.

The Republicans made their attacks on Truman so convincing that in the 1946 elections the voters gave them control of Congress. From then on few presidents ever had so much raucous trouble with Congress as Truman.

Johnson, a shrewd manipulator, may do better. But it's not a good bet.

Right now the congressional Republicans are laying off him. The Republican would-be presidential candidates have declared a moratorium on speech-making until after Jan. 1.

But then they'll come back, recharged by their rest, and able to make more noise than ever, particularly since Johnson, like Truman, has to encounter an election year, this time a presidential election, with himself no doubt a candidate.

But Johnson, deliberately or not, has followed the Truman pattern in a general way up to this point.

Truman lost no time, after becoming president, in addressing a joint session of Congress to say he would continue Roosevelt's policies. Johnson did the same, to express his support for the late President Kennedy's programs.

Truman asked the Roosevelt Cabinet to stay, although there were changes later. Johnson has asked the Kennedy Cabinet to stay.

Truman paid the House of Representatives a surprise visit 19 days after taking office, and had lunch there. Twice within the 19 days since he took office Johnson has visited the House, and had lunch there.

Truman early favored a tax-cut program. Right from the start Johnson favored Kennedy's tax-cut program.

Within six months after Truman became president the Republicans began opening up on him. They seem to be getting restless already about their moratorium on Johnson.

Stock Changes Hands In 'By-Pass' of Owner

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The headlines say: Stocks Hit New High. Trading Volume Soars. Customers Accounts Frozen When Brokerage House Is Suspended. Profit Taking Clips Prices.

And yet most of the stocks directly involved may never have been seen or handled by their actual owners.

Most of the 17 million Americans who own stocks may have theirs in safety deposit boxes, to be sure. But the shares that change ownership over and over in stock exchange trading may never travel further than from one brokerage house's vault to another's. And they make up only a small percentage of the total outstanding, and tucked away.

A customer opens a brokerage account much as he does a bank account. He must deposit enough money to cover both the cost of the stocks in which he wants to trade and the cost of commissions for buying and selling—fixed by the exchanges and determined by the price and amount of stocks traded—and the charge for credit should the customer want to buy on margin.

Some customers pay for their stocks and sock them away. Many leave them with the broker as part of their account without even seeing them.

Brokers say up to 90 per cent of the orders to buy or sell are received by phone from customers with accounts. Usually phone orders involve selling stock held in the broker's vault in the customer's name, or the buying of stocks to be placed there.

There are two chief types of brokerage house accounts.

—An individual investor buys stock for cash. They must be promptly paid for in full—either out of his account, or by actual currency or check.

—Traders buy on margin, as set by federal and stock exchange regulations. The federal rule at present is that 70 per cent must be settled in cash, with the broker lending the extra 30 per cent at a specified charge. Individual brokerage houses often require more cash than the legal limit. If the price of the stock should fall enough to jeopardize the margin, the broker may call for more cash, or if necessary he will sell the stock to protect the 30 per cent credit involved—and the hapless speculator gets what's left.

Buying or selling on the exchanges is done this way: The brokerage house phones the customer's order to buy, say, to its trader on the floor, who seeks out another broker with an order to sell the same stock. They try to get together on a mutually agreeable price. Normally, the stock is delivered within four trading days.

The Doctor Says

Best Gift for Pedestrians Is to Keep Streets Safe

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The most important holiday gift you can make to anyone is to help keep our streets safe for pedestrians. This is a responsibility of motorists and pedestrian alike.

The winter months are especially dangerous for those who travel on foot. Although persons of all ages are knocked down or run over by motorists, more than half of all pedestrian deaths occur with persons over 45. The majority of all the pedestrians killed are nondrivers, who have no first-hand knowledge of the factors involved in controlling an automobile.

For the motorist, good visibility is of the greatest importance. A frosted windshield should be cleaned completely and so should the side and rear windows. Don't be a peephole driver. If your wiper blades smear your windshield, wipe them clean of accumulated grease. If they still smear your windshield, get new ones. In general any blades that have been used for more than a year should be replaced because the rubber deteriorates with time and exposure to sun, wind and grease.

Good visibility, however, involves more than keeping the windshield clean. You should keep your headlights clean, too. When the sky is overcast or at twilight, turn on your headlights, not just your parking lights. This helps the pedestrian to see you and you to see him.

Don't make the mistake of wearing dark glasses at night to cut down the glare. What you are cutting down is your ability to see and that could lead to a tragedy.

Excessive smoking, drinking as well as fatigue reduce your ability to see clearly. Still another factor is the seeping of carbon monoxide from a faulty exhaust into the interior of your car, especially when all the windows are closed.

If the drivers coming toward you at night are using their bright lights, signal to them to dim their lights. Whether they do so or not, you can avoid trouble by looking at the right-hand side of the road instead of directly at the oncoming bright lights.

Although any one of the factors I have mentioned might not be serious by itself, a combination of two or more has caused many an accident that could have been prevented.

Puff Up Your Furs

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — Use your hair dryer to puff up furs that have been stored. Place the hair dryer and fur piece in a medium-sized plastic bag, leaving just the dryer cord outside. Fasten a rubber band around the opening where the hanger hook and the cord come out, to prevent any air from escaping. Turn the dryer on "COOL" and hold it up into the bottom of the bag. The fur hairs raise and all odor of storage is removed. Just be sure no children can get to the bag.

When washing fragile curtains, lay them in the bathtub and turn on cool water from the shower. After they are soaked, gently rub them with mild soap and let the shower water pour over them. Rinse the same way and hang to dry over the plastic-covered shower curtain rod, fastening the hems evenly with clothespins. This method eliminates injury to the material. — MRS. T. H. K. B.

GIRLS — One of my sons

used this shower method for laundering his drip-dry suits and shirts when he was traveling abroad but with liquid or powdered detergent instead of soap. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Last year about this time I purchased several things I intended to give for Christmas gifts and when Christmas rolled around I could not find them. I had completely forgotten where they were hidden. This year I made a note of the articles and the places they were put and taped it on the wall in the linen closet. If there are children in the family who can read, the names of the items might be written in a code only you would remember. — TERRY

GIRLS — Terry's forgetfulness really "hit home" with me. Christmas Eve is far too busy a time to have to go on a house-wide search for hidden gifts. — POLLY

Control of the Weather Seen By Pavement Plato

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Sidewalk comments of a Pavement Plato:
There are those who predict that in time man, who as yet cannot control himself, will be able to control the weather.
The prospect of such a victory by science has only one pleasing aspect to most of us—it probably won't happen in our own lifetime.
In 1890 in the Hartford Courant, Charles Dudley Warner, a friend of Mark Twain, wrote the most widely quoted observation ever made about the weather, a remark which most people attribute to Twain himself:

"Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody ever does anything about it."
The profound irony of this observation is based on the truth that, at least until recently, there wasn't much a fellow could do about the weather except to accept it, enjoy it, complain about it and, when necessary, take what steps he could to protect himself from it.
The weather has been the Creator's greatest instrument for teaching humility to arrogant man. No other device, not even that devil-inspired instrument, the income tax, has done so much in this respect—to keep man reasonably humble, or at least restrain him from over-reaching himself with excessive and unreasonable schemes based on his own selfish desire to have his own way.
Rain falls upon the just and the unjust with a fine and moist impartiality.
With the same hand and unconscious impartiality, the weather blows down a farmer's barn with a tornado, starts a forest fire with a lightning bolt, speeds 10 times 10 billion seeds to spurs of growth, assassinates a wilderness of bloom with killing frost, or freezes a lake so children can go ice skating.
In childhood and youth, we pay little heed to the weather except to complain about it querulously as it frustrates our dreams.
But as a man grows older, he learns to appreciate the weather and its moods more.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:
GOLDWATER: Senators generally are quick with a quote. But when they go on active military duty they sometimes catch the Pentagon mood and they avoid reporters.
Take Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.
A major general in the Air Force reserve, last Friday he began 15 days of active duty in the office of the deputy chief of staff for personnel.
All that could be learned about him from that office was that he has an office to himself, a blue flag with two stars like other Air Force generals, and "during his annual 15-day tour, he grants no interviews as a matter of policy."
VA DIVIDENDS: The Veterans Administration says it will distribute $234 million in dividends between Jan. 2 and 25 to insured veterans of World Wars I and II.
Following President Johnson's announcement Sunday that the 1964 insurance dividend would be paid early to stimulate the economy, the VA announced Tuesday it expected to complete payments by Jan. 25 — six days sooner than the record set in 1963.
WHEAT: The Commerce Department has issued a license for the sale of $3.2 million worth of U.S. wheat to Communist East Germany.
In making the announcement Tuesday, the department did not give the number of bushels in the proposed shipments. Wheat sells on the world market for about $1.35 up to about $1.80 a bushel, depending on the type.
The future of the proposed wheat sale to the Soviet Union remains cloudy, mainly due to a dispute over the cost of shipping in American vessels.

Senate Approves Provisions For Kennedy's Widow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, by voice vote, gave final approval Tuesday to a bill providing office space and Secret Service protection for former First Lady Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.
The measure was sent to the White House for signature by President Johnson, who is expected to act quickly.
As finally passed after going to the House and Senate twice for changes, the bill gives Mrs. Kennedy:
Free use of the mails for the rest of her life.
Temporary office space for 12 months, with a total of $50,000 for staff salaries for the 12-month period.
Secret Service protection for Mrs. Kennedy and her two children for two years.
An authorization of $15,000 to pay for the funeral and burial expenses of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Two-Car Mishap Claims Three; One Auto Burns

COLUMBUS, Kan. (AP)—Two cars collided and one burst into flames five miles south of Columbus Tuesday, killing two boys and a young woman.
The dead were Carolyn Jane Renick, 22, of Miami, Okla., and brothers Tommy Jack Dehart, 15, and James William Dehart, 4.
Mrs. Earl Dehart, mother of the boys and driver of one car, was admitted to St. John's Hospital in Joplin, Mo., for treatment of multiple cuts and bruises, abrasions, and injuries to the leg and hand.
The wreck was on U.S. 69.

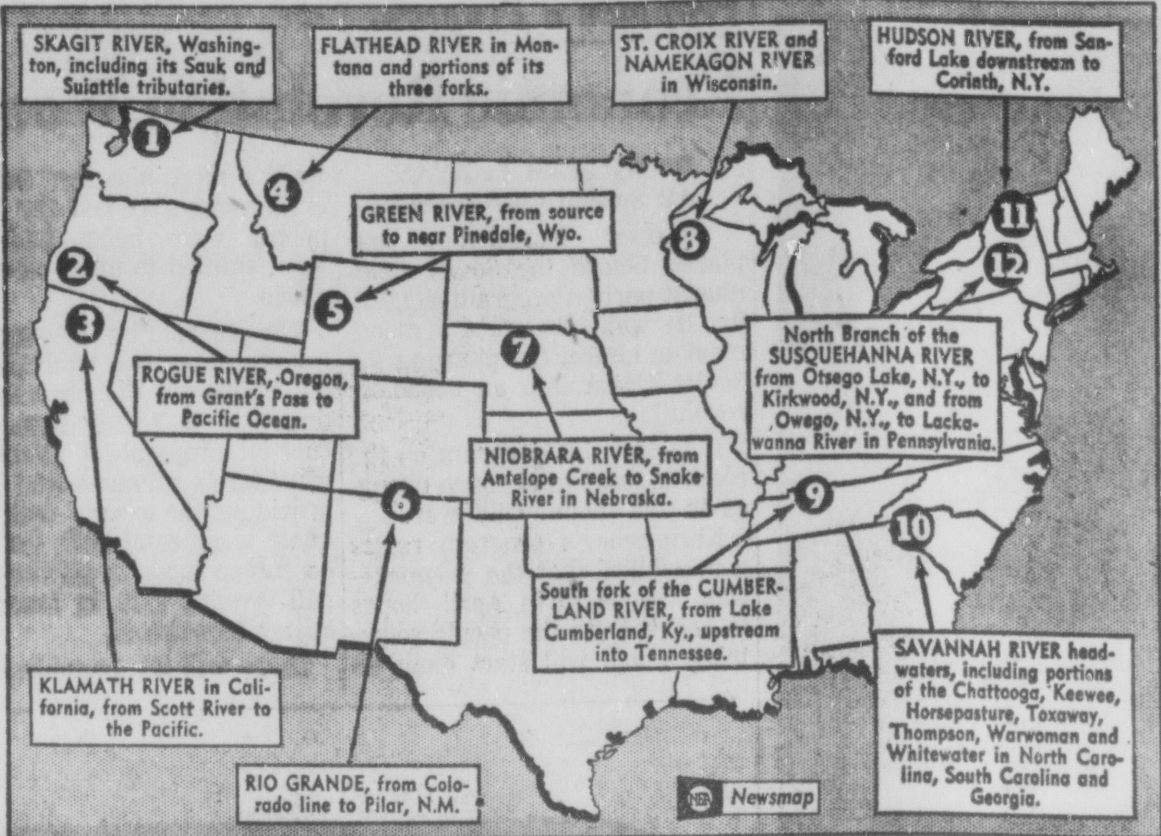

Houston Voters Name Republican To City Council

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Houston voters boosted Councilman Louie Welch to the mayor's job Tuesday night and elected the first Republican ever known to serve on the City Council.
Complete but unofficial returns gave Welch a 68,288 to 54,700 lead over Bob Hervey, a political newcomer.
Bill F. Elliott, the Republican who tried to unseat Democrat County Judge Bill Elliott last year, easily took a City Council post from Dr. C. W. Thompson, a Negro physician. The vote was 73,067 to 43,845.
Elliott, 50, a manufacturer's representative was elected councilman at large.

The study team's report, due about the end of 1964, would be submitted to Congress for necessary legislation.

Outnumber Red Men

Soviet Woman Is Subject Of ABC Special Program

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company at the start of a special documentary program Tuesday night promised dramatically to introduce us to a new breed of woman—the emancipated, hard-working Soviet woman.
Then for the next hour, its films and the Russian women interviewed all tended to prove that modern Soviet women are pretty much like women all over the world, including the United States.

While "The Soviet Woman" did not prove the narrator's premise it was still a most interesting program. Instead of the usual concentration on Kremlin thunder and politics, it pulled together a portrait of family life and the workaday world of the average Russian.
Women far outnumber men, many of whom were killed in World War II, and thus comprise about one-half of the Soviet working force. They also are employed in areas where few American women have important footholds. They predominate, for instance, in the field of medicine.

The Soviet woman like many of her American sisters, finds it is necessary to hold down a job as both parent and employee in order to make ends meet. Because the U.S.S.R. needs womanpower the state has kindergartens, nurseries and boarding schools to make it easier for her.

Order Juveniles To Attend Church
ONEONTA, Ala. (AP) — Two juveniles who admitted desecrating a church have been ordered to attend school and church regularly or go to a correctional institution.
The boys' parents were required to furnish labor repairs of the church, which suffered $5,000 damages in the Nov. 19 incident.
Juvenile Judge R. G. Kelton sentenced the pair to Alabama Boys Industrial School until they are 21, but suspended the sentence Tuesday provided the boys meet the other conditions.

Praise Visits By Johnson To Spur Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Still moving at a gallop, President Johnson is using praise and personal visits to try and nudge Congress along the legislative trail.
He spent most of Tuesday conferring with Senate and House leaders. And before calling a day, he traveled to Capitol Hill to drop in on House Speaker John W. McCormack.
"A visit with some friends," is the way White House news secretary Pierre Salinger described the meeting — Johnson's second informal call at the Capitol since becoming president 20 days ago.

Among the friends, said Salinger, were leading congressmen from both parties.
Some of the late President John F. Kennedy's GOP critics in Congress had contended that Republicans were passed over on foreign policy decision and were called in only during a crisis.
Johnson, an administration official said, intends to keep Congress "fully informed on developments in a number of fields," and Tuesday he had leaders of both parties in for a briefing on national security.

Over $4 Million In Grants For General Hospital

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "We have been gathering up a little money," Homer Wadsworth said Tuesday night and then announced that grants totaling $4,125,000 have been pledged for research and training at the General Hospital and Medical Center.
Wadsworth, consultant to the corporation that operates the hospital for the city, declined to specify the individual grants other than that of the only local one — $250,000 from the Kansas City Association of Trusts and Foundations.

Delinquency Prevention Aim of Six In Prison

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP).—Six young reformatory inmates are putting their troubled pasts on public display in the hope their stories will wave a red flag before young people verging on delinquency.

All minimum custody inmates of the Kansas State Industrial Reformatory, they'll travel anywhere in the state to retrace in intimate detail the routes that took them to prison.

"If we can save just one young person, we will feel that we have accomplished something," said one.

The program is tailored especially for junior high, high school and junior college audiences, but invitations from adult groups will be considered.

On their public appearances, they wear dress-out clothing—regular civilian attire—and travel by car with the reformatory chaplain and psychologist.

Average age of the six is 22, their average wait for parole eligibility six months.

The inmates, with help from Chaplain Joe Bayles and encouragement from Supt. John Mumms, decided to embark on the program after hearing a tape recording of a similar program by inmates of the Georgia Industrial Institute. It in turn was patterned after a program in Texas.

The men are selected by the chaplain, who submits the names to the superintendent for approval.

The first telling of their stories was a dress rehearsal before an audience of reformatory officials and members of the institution's citizens committee. Since then, two firm dates have been set for appearances and more than a dozen inquiries have been received.

Full names of the men are withheld.

There's Dick, a dope addict still not cured after 18 months in prison; Ronnie, who stole so he could have things that other youngsters had; Jim, who quit school and found himself running into nothing but trouble; Dennis, son of a physician who thought he knew more than those who tried to counsel him; Chick, an alcoholic; and Donnie, whose temper cost him his freedom when he pistol-whipped a tormentor.

Dick, who faces 40-1 odds against complete recovery from narcotics addiction, says he "honestly can't tell you why I got started."

He had a problem in high school because he didn't feel he could measure up to high academic standards set by a brother and sister. He dropped out at 17, married and became a father.

"I was on my way to becoming a junkie," he says. "First it was pep pills or 'bennies.'"

After three years, he "graduated to the heavy stuff," heroin, cocaine and the like.

"It would have cost me $75 to $100 a day, but I learned to forge prescriptions," he says. Forgery is what finally took him to the reformatory.

Dennis was an honor student and lettered in athletics. He blames his imprisonment on his wrong attitude. With an IQ of 135, he thought he was too intelligent to listen to adults.

He teamed with a fellow student considered a genius and turned to vandalism for excitement. A safe burglary put him in the reformatory.

Chick's troubles began early. At 11, he was running with an older gang and became acquainted with alcohol. At 17, he joined the Army and was sent to Germany. He saved $300 for a trip to London but squandered it on drink and wound up in the hospital. He was discharged as an alcoholic.

He returned to the United States, split with his wife because of his drinking. A $1,900 check writing spree to finance good times put him in the reformatory. He was released after a year but was back after 145 drunken days.

Proposes a Program

Economic Revolution Would Be Monument to Mr. K

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Premier Khrushchev has placed before the Soviet Communist party a program suggesting he wants to erect a monument to himself by plunging the Soviet Union into an economic revolution.

If he gets his program on the road, it can signal sharp changes in the global cold war.

Khrushchev's program raises a possibility that the premier—who will be 70 in April—hopes to bequeath to the people something which will start them to ward a more abundant consumer economy. At last the Soviet people were being told they were entitled to more consumer goods.

The program involves massive investment—the equivalent of $46 billion—in the chemical industry in a 7-year plan. This cure-all proposal to attack agriculture's ailments and begin providing the people with adequate supplies of both food and consumer goods in all likelihood will require cuts in heavy industry investment.

There will be grumbling and sullen opposition in high places, notably among many unreconstructed Stalinists and among the high military brass to whom heavy industry means promise of superiority in super-weapons, space and world power.

The current Central Committee meeting could mark a historic turning by the government toward its domestic problems. That in turn might mean Moscow would want to avoid dangerous cold war confrontations with the United States.

The people have been long plagued by shortages and irritated by lack of quality and quantity in consumer goods.

The Soviet Union must buy grain abroad today to counter disastrous shortages caused by farm failures. Popular opinion must be taken into consideration by the party and government. The public obviously is tired of slogans and promises.

This will earn Khrushchev more enmity from the Communist Chinese and from those in the Communist world—in the Soviet Union as well as abroad—who believe Communist world aims must come first.
